

2010 Sangiovese

Background

Sangiovese was pioneered in Australia by Coriole Vineyards with the first plantings in 1985. It provided a contrasting style to Shiraz, the great tradition of McLaren Vale. It has proved to be ideally suited to the warm maritime climate of the region.

The fruit is sourced from some of the oldest producing Sangiovese vines in Australia. The 2010 vintage is Coriole's 24th consecutive release.

Tasting Notes

Typical Sangiovese on the nose - red fruit, dark cherry, earth and mineral. A medium bodied wine that with a little air shows raspberry and plum.

The finish is long and even with fine grained tannins, some varietal grip and balancing acidity.
